Wow I didn't know that part but thanks. I had heard it was pretty good from other sources. For me personally all that wouldn't matter. I never upgrade with a new OS I always back up everything and then do a fresh install.

That said, at least Microsoft will answer questions and has refund policies and guarantees for when things go really wrong. They also don't release software that could get it's users in legal trouble.

All G is doing, is advanced Lead Generation, there is nothing against the law to contact people out of the blue who possibly could be interested in what you are offering due to their ad on craigslist or what ever resource you can obtain from these sources.

People do it all the time... I do too... I contact people running a keyword research on google and hunt for those ads offering to sell their service, after looking at their site I analyze if they are in need of a site re-revamp or SEO work cos they arent ranked anywhere for the phrases they are paying for...

this method is allowed and is extremely profitable.. but again, u can only contact these people once.

Now see these are some constructive points. Thanks for these Askloz. I am still not impressed by Predator and have many concerns with the software and GB but at least you addressed some concerns. It would have been nice to receive such answers from the horses mouth so to speak.

Re: George Brown's Predator

Ok,

So I should be able to use the software today, so far the only thing I had issues setting up with the software were my email accounts and getting them to properly forward to my main account.

I gotta say guys and any gals out there, im new to these forums still and you all are very negative and pessimistic. (from my perspective) If you can't afford the program or have doubts then don't buy the program.

Theres a simple rule I have learned in my investing and if you don't invest here is a nugget of gold information. Don't venture what you can't afford to lose. Now if the product goes terribly wrong, I will then deal with George and his team at that point.

To speak to the other points of the software, I have not personally run into any other bugs at the moment, except for the issues of being able to run the product on more than one pc. I am working to get that clarified with the support staff.

Anyhow I am so far pretty happy with the software and the price for software is not that bad for a full automated system.

Anyhow back to my videos.

Peace!

I would like to add one more point, from what I am learning so far, you have to ability to avoid spamming people with the software.

Whats the real difference between this program and paying someone to run a solo ad for you?

In its original versions it was by no means.

As for the bug, yes there is a bug affecting some people right now, I was completely not aware of it and only affecting around 15% of the people inside right now.

It's the smallest, silliest bug (the software removes the last letter of each email you send), so is clearly fixable. If it wasn't finding people, then obviously, that'd be a real issue.

So don't worry, obviously something like that will be resolved asap, with the next 48 hours I hope. We're just trying to figure out why it happens on 1/5 computers, and not others ok.

Within a couple of days, if not a lot less, the software will be back to being fully operational for everyone, please don't worry about it, and just go through the training while you're waiting, there's plenty there to go through anyway 😊

Thanks for being patient though.

I wish I had read this sooner George!

I too have the same problem - dropping the last letter of each email address. I was truly hoping to have recovered the cost over the weekend, but at least now I have confirmation of a definite 'bug'.

One thing that does get to me, as it has others people here apparently is the time it takes for support to get back to me.

There is nothing worse than NOT KNOWING what the hell is going on. Over 24 hours to respond, after 3 tickets submitted is a bit much. But if there is lots of people having the same problem, then, hmmm...ok, I understand.

As for the software...

I'm disappointed to see that almost every example is showing Craigslist to obtain data from. There are not many other places where you can get email addresses from, and I have no intention of cold calling the people who leave their telephone numbers!

Time will tell if this works, but I hope to God it does because I had to borrow the wonga to buy the software!

My gut feeling is that when the software works for me, it is going to work quite nicely and I will be able to reap the rewards.

What I don't get is why young George is getting such a slating here! The software has a glitch, stop taking it personally folks! Give it a chance to work, the software is still in beta.

Please let us know what happens. I don't think anyone is taking it personally. George is taking a slating because of how he has handled all of this. We all make mistakes and if we have we need to man up and admit it.

I am not saying Predator is a mistake (seems to be but I will wait and see) and I am not saying George is the devil and has done everything wrong. Just be truthful, admit mistakes, don't try to fool people, be honest. Those things weren't done and people aren't happy. This thread is not about that though.

If you get response and over come your problems with Predator let us know, if you don't then also let us know. We need to know what this software is really about so others can either pony up and buy it or avoid a VERY EXPENSIVE MISTAKE.

who can't send emails, what an annoying bug! And don't worry it will be fixed shortly. Possibly by tonight.

To all the others:

If you don't want to join me in the predator program. Don't. I'm not being rude, but the fact is it really doesn't make a huge difference to my day.

If you don't want to actually buy from someone who puts their HEART AND SOUL into every product they make for you, so it's as good as possible when I release it then fine. Don't buy from me, buy all the other CRAP products this industry is rife with then come on here and moan about why you didn't make any money.

I don't sit there and put all this effort in, to then be insulted, mostly from people who haven't bought the product and/or have no idea what they are talking about or evidence to back it up.

Screenshots -

If you think those screenshots were fake then go ahead and ask me for a refund. You can have one.

Speaking of refunds, it's not really that kind of product, you are being invited on board this as privilege, and getting all this personal attention (52 coaching webinars in one year? Other marketers charge $20,000 for a 2 day mastermind.)

However, yeah if really want a refund, you can have one. I'll try to help you as best I can first, but if there really isn't any helping you. There's a refund policy, of course there is.

I swear literally over half the people in this thread don't even READ the replies prior to them. They just come in, and feel the need to voice their opinion, based on no evidence at all.

Nor do I need any one who wants to complain about nothing on board as a customer, CERTAINLY NOT on board for the beta program of predator.. At this price.

I don't need to make fake screenshots mate. They are real. Why do I show you the LIVE account? Why do I explain that it's from a bunch of stuff including using predator to increase traffic to google sniper.

Tell you what, Why don't you ask clickbank who's not only one of their best sellers, but ALSO one of the top super AFFILIATES.

Which by the way, yes, it was limited at 50 on the initial stream, but because of the screw up technically and no one being able to see it on the night... We've sold a few more. Not as many as you might think though.

As for other questions:

Price when it's released to the public next year: $3,997. You my promise on that.

Why didn't the stream work? Was it a scarcity tactic? Are you kidding me? You think I WANT my hosting to go down just everyone gets pissed off enough to buy it? What kind of strategy would that be.

No one wanted it to work more than me, I was sitting there in a shirt for 3 hours really excited to get started.

I have no idea why my TERRIBLE hosting company went down. Take it up with liquidweb.com - WORST company ever. There servers can't even handle 5,000 visits in an hour. They thought it was a DOS attack.

That's all I have to say. Make what you want of it. I love this forum, but sometimes you guys really bring me down when all I'm doing is trying to make the best products for you. Which at $797, the value of predator is UNPARALLELED anywhere else in the industry, by a long bloody shot.

I was a big fan of your marketing, and would like to hear some response to these points before I would ever be able to trust you any more.

Re: George Brown's Predator

Well in my humble opinion that answer, by George, was just as emotional as some of the other uncalled for comments directed toward Predator and him on this forum but at least now we know there is a refund policy thanks for that George. Does anyone know the EXACT terms of this policy?

It's great that George took the time to reply. Thank you for clarification of where you're at with fixing the bug.

Me for one will not request a refund. Anyone who does without testing predator properly is freakin nuts in my opinion.

Looking forward to the fix.

George, thank you so much for your reply, I appreciate it - a lot.

Thank's for all your answers to all of my thorys I posted in the thread, however I am still very skeptical.

Obviously though, I have not yet properly used the product, simply because it's not working. But as you're working on fixing it, then I gues I'll just have to wait.

When it does work, I will use it in depth, and like I said I have no doubt it WILL make money. However I think your marketing tactics on this beta launch have been very below the belt, and I really urge you to buck up your ideas in future. I believe the product CAN make money, and I'm not saying it's a crap product. But your marketing has made me lose a lot of trust in you.

Thanks a tonne for your reply, I'm glad to see you are remaining active in this thread.

If you seen the webinar and see how the software works then it would be naive to think the software can't make money. It's common sense that with the way the software works, and by the user inputting the correct data and products ect, it will make money.

Whether the income is long term, sustainable, or large income though is another story...

That is why I was lured into paying the $800 in the first place to buy it.

Re: George Brown's Predator

Hey guys,

Like i said earlier in my other post, the fundamentals are completely solid in George's program... For those of you who truly understand internet marketing, you've figured out by now that everything is a number's game... but here's what's exciting about the predator.... once you figure out your conversion, you can scale up to unlimited potential without spending an extra dime 😊

I've been very successful with paid traffic, but one of the problems with paid traffic is that scaling up usually required a huge investment in my part...

But predator is a completely new beast in its own! Scaling up is simple as clicking a few buttons literally... man, once this bug is fixed, i'm definitely going tear it up!

And for those of you who question my credibility... just look at a WSO thread called Easy-Tv-Money.... All my checks are posted there, and i intend to do the same with this program as well 😊

From,

Marc

I don't think people are trying to be downers. They are trying to be realistic and make an informed decision. That is the reason a lot of them AREN'T broke.

Please keep us informed about how the issues are addressed with Predator and your positive or negative experience.

Re: George Brown's Predator

I'm surprised that no one has brought up the fact that this product already existed years ago. It wasn't sold by George of course... it was by a couple of other guys (I forget their name now, but if anyone's interested I'll find out through my IM partner). Anyway, we bought it, and it cost about $2k.

We never got anything out of it... maybe a few dollars but that's it.

Just to be clear now I haven't bought Predator, but from what I've read about it it's just about the same thing. It searches craigslist etc for people either looking for or selling particular products. It could be someone wanting baby stuff (in which case you may direct them to a relevant CPA offer), or a car (or other high ticket item), in which case you could act as the middle man between them and someone else.

We tried both methods and never got anywhere with it. The whole middle man thing just didn't work out at all. I remember going through hundreds of ads for super expensive cars trying to set different people up together and it just never happened. Promoting CPA offers never worked either as most people didn't appreciate getting random emails directing them to a CPA offer.

Anyway, maybe Predator is different someone, but that's my experience with a very similar product.

I would be very interested to know if anyone actually makes money with this, and if so how they did it.

George mentions in his webinar that he's trying every other IM software out there... I wonder if he's tried the one I mentioned.

Blackman,

Here's the thing... The Predator isn't a public launch.... it's more of a private beta testing launch.... key word... BETA

It's more of a privilege than anything to be part of the first group of people.. If you watch the webinar, he's addressed most issues & concerns... and if you still have more issues & concerns, then he points to the e-mail address on the webinar page to get those answered as well...

By no means was Predator a blind sales product, and it's for sure not in its finalized form... He makes this very clear from the beginning....

The main point for this launch is for Beta Testers, not to suddenly release to the masses....

I said "craigslist etc", meaning more than just craigslist. Anyway regardless of the traffic source the product seems to be very similar.

Re: George Brown's Predator

Say Predator does everything it promises...

At the end of the day it's just targeted spamming.

Not saying George Brown's Google Sniper is a bad product...but if he's harvesting emails from CL in the jobs section, and then mass sending the same email to them... what would you think and feel if you were a recipient?

"Never heard of this guy, how did he get my email, how is this different to Mr. Kobe from Nigeria and his offer?"

On the surface, there is absolutely no differentiation between that all the other make money spam emails one receives.

Ofcourse you can make the email seem more specific "Like, hey saw your ad on CL" so that the recipient thinks you're talking directly to them... and only them... but how impressed would you feel if that same email went to hundreds of other folks.

Just because it's a tactic that can be used to make money...doesn't mean you should use it.

Ethics & Reputation are two things I value above anything else.

It is always slightly amusing when you hear somebody desperately trying to justify their own purchase, and subsequently trying to sound like the promoter themselves in the process ;-)

There isn't even an affiliate program for predator lol, so i definitely won't receive a commission for doing so..

All i know is, when i purchased Google Sniper, I was able to quit my job and be full time in online marketing... that was the start of my online career...

So if George was responsible for helping me make full time income online, i don't see why Predator will be any less 😊

You can stay broke, but I've got a fat bank account to prove it.

You really need to provide data proving these allegations when posting something like this.

Could he of expanded on a concept that was already out there? yes, he could have , but that does not constitute theft. So, by saying that he ripped off a product, you need to prove this, or edit your post.

Fine I edited my post. But no it doesn't look like he expanded on the product... it's almost identical, down to the search specifications and how the results are displayed. He may have expanded it by adding some new areas of the net to search, but the core of the product is the same.

I won't get into the 'mine is bigger than yours' juvenile debate with you, but do you know when you had to buy Google Sniper, to make a few $ online? Well, I was already worth 7 figures, my friend, so maybe don't be so quick to judge...

Oh... and I never had to sell my soul, or follow a 'guru', and their BS, to make it...

Did I say anything like that? No. You're making a huge generalization on an unrelated topic (cars) , based on what I said about two different pieces of software being the same. Buy the two products and compare them for yourself if you want to see how similar they are.

Why would it be different? They all have the following.

- Ignition
- Steering Wheel
- Seats
- Hood
- Trunk
- Wheels
- Engine
- Brakes

I would think that every car also have similar features, but it isn't theft.

Hi Robo,

No I was able to get the emails to save, I have having some other technical issues with sending out to emails but it could be my issue and I will clarify with technical support and comment afterwards. I have so far been able to set up the software. I have about 5 emails set up on the software. I will update when I know more.

That product was called "Instant Lead Magnet" which I bought back in 2009 for $77. I was also an affiliate of the product because I really liked the program. However, one of the people who bought the software program from me was the owner of backpage, yes, I kid you not. Guess what? Once he had the software he or his programmers figured out a way to block the software from scraping backpage, and POOF, I couldn't scrape backpage anymore. Today, Instant Lead Magnet software no longer works for scraping craigslist(CL) as well, as CL's programmers got wind of the software and blocked it as well. As you can see from George's presentation he primarily used CL to demo his software and for good reason. Its one of the biggest sites when it comes to traffic. I am very familiar with scraping and sending emails from CL. I had been doing it for over a year with Instant Lead Magnet. What I learned from this experience is that CL does indeed have spam filters to prevent people from doing just the kind of thing George's software does. I think in the webinar he recommends that you set outgoing emails to 1 every 30 seconds. BAD MOVE. When I used Instant Lead Magnet best practices was to set outgoing emails to 1 every 6 minutes, or 10 every hour if my math serves me correctly. The whole idea was to stay under the radar with CL. Extrapolating, thats 240 every 24 hours, you guys get the picture. Anything more than that and CL would either block you or send your emails to the customers spam folder. Can you imagine sending tons of emails that are going to end up in peoples spam box. So if you guys think you'll be scaling this bad boy up with 100 gmail accounts, etc, pump your brakes. If you do so I can almost guarantee gmail will be blocking/suspending your account. CL is not having it. If CL and some of the other sites that are scraped using Predator get wind of George and Predator, its curtains for Predator just like it was curtains for Instant Lead Magnet. Don't get me wrong, I have utmost respect for George and have made some nice cash with his systems, but software is a totally different beast IMO. For this to truly work over the long haul George you will have to maintain a team of programmers that will need to constantly update the software when these sites change their API's or whatever it is these site programmers do. This as you know is no small feat.  QUOTE

I've purchased Predator, and I'll give a bit of feedback.

Proof:
<http://i.imgur.com/2KMAu.jpg>

So like most other people here, I was sucked in with all the hype. I watched the webinar, and yeah, I was actually quite impressed with it.

I'm a long customer of Google Sniper 2.0, and have been on George's list for well over a year now. I've always respected him, and found him one of my most looked up to internet marketers. Because of this, I didn't think twice about buying the Predator software. (yeah, stupid me...)

I now have access to the software, and there is a lot of walkthroughs and guides in the members area. the members area is very similar to the Google Sniper 2.0 members area. Although, what i was disappointed with is that NONE of the guide videos are created by George - they are created by his partner instead.

To the software now...

Firstly, I need to say I purchased the software over 24 hours ago. And to this time, the software physically, DOES NOT work. The emails just refuse to be sent, and the software simply does not function currently. You can see from my screenshot, from the bottom area the g is cut off from the end of the .org part of the emails. Due to this, the software doesn't currently work.

Yes, I have sent in numerous support tickets so far - with NO response. I'm abandoned here.

Although I watched the webinar and thought it was a great idea, it's a spam tool. I'm the first to tell you that, and I definitely regret buying it. It's only a matter of time before this is COMPLETELY saturated.

I haven't made a cent with the software yet, due to it not working for me. I have no doubt it can make money. But I'm very skeptical of the long term method - simply because I can see places such as Craigslist cranking up their rules and restrictions very soon.

Also, $110k to make this software? Dont insult my intelligence. it's the simplest software ever. If you paid $110k to make this software then you have went crazy. Theres nothing special about Predator - other than with all the hype that comes with it.

*Another thing, 50 copies for sale? Dont talk sh*t George. Firstly, over 48 hours ago, at the END of the webinar, you say there's something like only 4 copies left. Funny how I easily still managed to buy my copy about 14 hours after the webinar was done. So i received an email saying all copies are done this morning from George, and the order page has been taken down. Ohh, but guess what - it's NOT. What a surprise eh? Predator w/ Membership Area Mabe just another mistake, I guess. Now hes also saying that you can sign up to another list about if someone 'credit card gets declined', you get an email about it - so you can buy it. No doubt there's a follow up email for that aweber list in about a few days time sending me to that link!*

Also, about that webinar and the servers getting overloaded? For some reason I find that hard to believe... But I'll save that for another day. Makes perfect sense to keep people drewling for the webinar. The webinar is on for like 2 and a half hours, and nowhere is it mentions in the webinar about servers being down. BUT, if the servers WERE down, then how is there all of these LIVE comments on the webinar about how all the people watching it were being SHOCKED in real time. Thats impossible if the live stream was down. Not to mention all of the emails I was getting from 'George' while the webinar was supposidley getting recorded, yet nowhere in the webinar do you see him sending any aweber broadcasts.

Furthermore, I have also see the webinar with the income proofs AFTER I purchased it, and yes, the income proofs ARE fake. here is a screenshot from the webinar: <http://i.imgur.com/JRzS7.png> It's all Google Sniper sales. Definitely NOT Predator sales.

And it gets worse. I'm also on George Browns JV list, and a week before the release of this predator, he done a affiliate content, obviously to give a big boost in his sales. And guess what? In his webinar he shows income proof of this massive JUMP in income from using 'predator'. And guess what? this big jump also just happens to be on the first day of his JV contest for Google Sniper. Coincidence, eh?

Look, don't waste your money. Dont get me wrong, I am completely PISSED at George Brown now. and I think I was crazy to fall for his sales pitch. Don't waste your money, it looks like George is trying to get a quick buck with this.

George has lost the plot with this release. Seriously...

I hope I've helped a lot of you here, and saved you a whole lot of money. George, shame on you...

Any more comments in addition is appreciated!

Wow! Hey Domino!! Well done Sir!! This review you've given about this thing is awesome, because you've had the steadfast and honest courage to come here to this forum and tell a few stark facts and home-truths about this 'product' and you've alerted everyone as to how jaw droppingly outrageously you've been 'had' by this guy over this! Thanks again (on behalf of all of us who were on that livestream and didn't buy this) for your first-hand buyer and user review about 'Predator', having already put it to the test. Now you've confirmed exactly what I suspected was going to happen right from the outset: (i.e. that there would immediately be some serious 'server-side' 'errors' (as well as a complete lack of any tangible support to be found) as so you actually started trying to use this 'amazing new' 'wonder software'!

I was on that 'livestream' of George Brown's myself also, (having had repeated emails from him about this 'amazing new' 'wonder product' of his which (according to his claims) is supposed to be 'simply light years ahead' of everything else on the internet that's ever gone before it, when it comes to making money online. (For George Brown, maybe), but I doubt that the same thing will hold true for any of his 'customers' who were unfortunate enough to gamble eight hundred dollars to actually BUY this before they could even get to TRY it!! Now you've provided direct and undeniable proof of how persuasively so many people (who are desperate enough to want to make money online 'push-button easy' can be taken in by someone like this, if they don't take any notice of that "little red warning-light" that should be shining out insistently in the back of their heads when these types of sales pitches are made.

As soon as he demonstrated this tool by harvesting people's email addresses from Craigslist (without their knowledge or consent) so that he could spam them with a CPA 'email submit' about 'winning' a 'free' iPhone, I could see how full of holes his whole presentation was. CPA networks don't like being sent those kinds of leads from those kinds of sources for a start: That's enough to get your account banned or closed down by any of the more reputable CPA Networks and will cause you to automatically forfeit any commissions you might have managed to generate in the process, if any, anyway.

But what really clinched it (for me), (to not buy this) was how insistently he was "rambling on" in his two-hour long 'webinar' about all his different 'earnings screenshots' and by how he demonstrated the product (as if there are no such thing as terms and conditions that have to be abided by in the search engines and on the networks throughout every step of the way when it comes to internet marketing and making money online). I was also somewhat taken aback and amazed by how many emails he bombarded my inbox with about this, and by how hard he was pushing everything he said or did in his 'presentation' to convince or persuade people to buy it.

This product will never make anyone rich. It's just another 'push-button' 'shiny new object' designed to beguile the naive and the unwary.

That's why he stressed that his own results with this 'software' are not typical.

Sorry to hear you got taken in by this, Domino!! I HOPE that you can get your money back! (Please keep us posted as to how it all turns out). We ALWAYS want to know the truth on this forum about all things IM and Making Money Online, (that's the whole idea of coming here to read these threads) and the admin shouldn't see this as 'bashing', because that isn't what this is. If people are going to launch and market products that don't work or don't turn out to be able to do what they claim to, then they should expect to take some Flack when all the bad feedback starts to filter through.

Re: George Brown's Predator

Blackman75, did you actually read the post from trafficbot?

Anybody that thinks the owners of CL are naive sitting ducks, and will open themselves up to such abuse for anything more than a few 'punts' from wide-eyed Predator owners, had better have a serious re-think of their core ability to make money from the internet.

The amount of people who genuinely make money online is absolutely miniscule compared to those who try, and buy into 'easy ways to click magic, shiny buttons, and suddenly their clickbank accounts are filled with gold'.

Yes, Google Sniper worked, but the SERIOUS marketers amongst us were using those techniques 10 years before George placed his snippets into a PDF for newbies to learn.

As Trafficbot also says above, using software is a TOTALLY different proposition, and the sites being abused in this way will very quickly adapt, and slap down the attempts.

Come on, guys. If you really have ambitions to make it online, you have to get real, and stop believing in fairy tales.

Re: George Brown's Predator

Could someone please explain where the Predator software is pulling traffic from besides craigslist? I saw Georg's demo, and he mentioned google and bing. Beyond that, does it use social networks, adwords, or any other free traffic sources?

Thanks;

Re: George Brown's Predator

Is it Predator or Power Leads ProX?

I lost a lot of respect for George Brown. I thought he really did create something special until he finally revealed what the program was. After all, it did take him an hour to show us anything with all his babbling. I've never seen anyone so unprepared for such an important event. Anyway, as soon as I saw him use the program on Craigslist, a RED flag suddenly appeared in my brain. All George did was steal the Power Leads ProX program.

Shame on you George! As for the 2 years and 110K to develop Predator, what a pile of Bull S..T

That's what I said... it's the exact same program.

I think you're right actually... I was mistaken and this is the program I was talking about. It just looks a bit different now.
